

Review of P.6 mock interview

The P.6 mock interview for different primary schools in the district was held on 26th November 2022 (Saturday). The aim of it was to help the 6th Graders to prepare the interview for getting a place at their ideal secondary schools. Our English Ambassadors were very helpful that they helped teachers to ask candidates questions in English during the interview and further promoted our school to them. There were 22 English Ambassadors in total. After the interview, some English Ambassadors claimed that they were impressed by the candidates' performance and their language ability. Here comes the reflections of 4 English Ambassadors.

After experiencing the mock interview as an English Ambassador, I felt that my self-esteem had a slight boost. A couple minutes before the mock interview, I was feeling a little on edge and anxious, but most of it was washed away as I entered the room as the teacher inside was someone I was very familiar with. After that, the mock interview went on quite smoothly since I did have a script to follow and I was accompanied by the teacher I know. It also made me think about how pointless it was to worry in the first place since I wasn't the one being interviewed. This experience has built up my self-confidence and I believe it is a good learning experience.

Helping teachers to conduct the P.6 mock interview is a unique experience that I have never had in my life. At the start of the event, I was nervous to help as an English Ambassador. I tried to calm myself down, and I kept trying my best. I was lucky to have a classmate to do it with me. We cooperated well, and we guided the P.6 students to answer questions in English. Some of them were shy and some were active. The event went smoothly as expected. I learnt a lot from this event like communication skill and language skill.

On 26 November, I returned to school as a helper of P.6 mock interview. The activity was meaningful to both candidates and me. I had learnt a lot as an English Ambassador. My English and self-confidence have been improved in this activity. I felt satisfied that I had helped in this interview. I treasure such an opportunity to learn.
